PLAIN SUBLIMATION TEE SHIRT

Sublimation printing is a relatively new but well established method of printing that offers many benefits over traditional screen printing.

Sublimation is actually a dye process that infuses the fibres of a garment. In contrast, screen printing inks sit on top of the fabric.

This difference in the application of pigment means that sublimation prints do not affect the handle or softness of polyester fabric maximising the comfort of the wearer.

The sublimation process is also favoured as it enables bold and vibrant colours that do not wash out, crack or fade.

Sublimation is also requires less preparation time and is most cost effective for short run printing as artwork can be taken directly from computer generated images and logos without the need of preparing screens.
